INTRODUCTION.

It may be expedient to observe, that the Articles are submitted to Public inspection as received; no selection on the ground of excellence or rejection on that of inferiority has been made; the object kept in view has been to shew the Raw Products, Machinery, Manufactures and Fine Arts of the Deccan, as they are, and thus to exhibit faithfully the weak as well as the strong points of the Industries of the Country.

This will explain the absence of some specimens and the inferiority of others.

The Exhibition is thus a practical summation of the past.

It must however be borne in mind, that the Exhibition is but the means to an end, and not the end itself. That end is the gradual infusion of an industrial spirit in the Native Community, the gradual extension of trade in all its branches, and the consequent elevation of the people in the scale of civilized life; results such as these can only be attained after years of patient, consistent and prudent exertion.

The Exhibition is thus a hopeful starting point for the future.
